The decision to design this bunk bed after a barn comes from the fact that a barn is something that most children can recognize and is a non-threatening object. This bunkbed is packed with many built-in features that can be used for years. The top bunk comes with a guard rail, so the child cannot fall while they are tossing and turning at night. The built-in slide and "windows" can be used to entertain active children as they slide for hours at a time or play house when they are stuck inside during rainy days or perhaps quarantined inside the house. There is a staircase that leads to the top bunk and the steps are drawers that have quite a large capacity. The drawers are equipped with soft close drawer slides, so the drawers can open and close at any time of the day without disturbing anyone that could be sleeping. The underbed drawers have casters for easy pulling out from under the bed. There is an included reading nook located underneath the slide area. It has custom upholstered cushion and more storage to store toys, books, or anything else. It is perfect for reading bedtime stories to children or just a space for the children to read as they grow.
